- c) submit your details as part of an online or mobile application enquiry; or
- d) contact us by telephone or email for any other reason.

2. Reasons for collecting personal information

The type of information that we collect is limited to that which is necessary.

Enquiries

For online/mobile application or telephone enquiries, we will generally require basic information such as your name and contact details (telephone number and/or email address) in order to be able to deal with your enquiry.

Telephone calls made to certain telephone numbers within the Group may be recorded for training and quality purposes. More information on recorded calls is set out under section 5 (Recording calls) below.

Website/Mobile App Registration

To register online to receive, for example, email alerts or access to certain documentation, we will require certain basic information from you together with confirmation of the alerts or documentation that you wish to receive.

When you enter into a business relationship with a company or business unit within the Group, the information that we will require will be of a more detailed nature and may include your home and business addresses, contact details and nationality. We will need this information to ensure that we provide the requested products and services to you and for general administrative purposes (e.g. managing your account and obtaining credit checks where appropriate).

Any contractual relationship we have with you will be governed either by specific business terms and conditions standard to a member of the Group or elsewhere governed within bespoke contractual documentation agreed with our customers. 3. Use of your information

For enquiries and online/mobile application registration, your personal data will only be used to create a record of your enquiry or registration. We will keep this information for no longer than is necessary.

If you have registered with us for Business Purposes, we may use your information to contact you about other products and services that the Group offers and that we consider may be of use to you.

Additionally, and unless otherwise agreed, in the case where our contractual relationship with you is governed by our standard business terms and conditions (see above), we may also pass your contact details to carefully selected third parties who may contact you about their products and services that may be of interest to you.

6. Use of Electronic Cookies

What are cookies?

A cookie is a small text file on your computer, created by a website to store information about your visit, such as your preferences. Once a cookie is saved on your computer, only the website that created the cookie can read it. Most major websites use cookies.

Currently, some (but not all) of the Group's websites use either session cookies and/or persistent cookies – see below which explains the cookies we may use and why. You will be able to identify where we use persistent cookies on our websites by a pop-up request for your consent on its initial landing page or by the website otherwise notifying you of their use.

Where adopted, session cookies we have used are implemented strictly in order to allow the services that you request to be provided. Once you close your browser, session cookies simply terminate. This is in contrast to persistent cookies (such as our use on certain of our websites of Google Analytics) which are stored on your hard disk, but can be removed by deleting them in your web browser. We may later choose to adopt additional persistent cookies on our websites insofar as we believe these provide an enhanced experience for our customers or prospective customers. If we choose to do so, in accordance with the Privacy and Electronic Communications (EC Directive) (Amendment) Regulations 2011, we will communicate such a change in practice and, to the extent required by the Regulations, we will allow you to give/deny your consent before adopting this practice, to the extent applicable.

Why do we use cookies?

Cookies allow our websites to function fully in order to deliver our products and services to you. They may also help us to improve our website and to deliver a better and more personalised service to you.

Information gathered by cookies will, nevertheless, only be used in accordance with the terms of this privacy notice.

How can you reject cookies?

Unless you have adjusted your browser setting so that it will refuse cookies, our system will issue essential session cookies when you log on to our sites to allow them to function fully. Your consent will be sought for all other types of cookies.

You may refuse to accept all types of cookies by activating the setting on your browser which allows you to refuse the setting of cookies. However, if you select this setting, certain sections within our websites will not be able to function as expected.

Please note that any advertisers on our website may also use cookies on their websites, over which we have no control.

More information about what cookies are, why they are used, and also how you can reject and delete them, is usually found in your browser's help section. This is normally accessed by pressing the F1 key.
